

Where to Watch the Solar Eclipse in New York City

NEW YORK CITY — A solar eclipse — in which the moon passes between the earth and the sun — is set to take place Monday afternoon in a celestial show that will visible to all of North America.

Though New York City is outside the "path of totality," where viewers can catch a full eclipse, the city will be able to see the moon cover about 75 percent of the sun, according to experts at the American Museum of Natural History. The solar event will start at 1:23 p.m. and end at 4 p.m., with peak coverage happening at 2:44 p.m., museum officials said.

► [Where To Watch Monday's Solar Eclipse With A Drink In Hand \[GOTHAMIST\]](#)

Below, you'll find our roundup of eclipse viewing parties and other events taking place Monday throughout the five boroughs. Here are some tips for protecting your eyes, and here's a list of places you can find solar filters and glasses.

MANHATTAN

► Haven Rooftop at Sanctuary Hotel, 132 W. 47th St., Midtown

Head to this bar for rooftop views, eclipse-themed cocktails and bar bites. Doors will open at 1 p.m, and \$20 admission will get you one drink and a pair of eclipse sunglasses.