

WHERE TO WATCH THE SOLAR ECLIPSE IN NEW YORK CITY

Sometimes the universe does interesting stuff and it's essential that we all stop to acknowledge it. Like, how the moon can just casually mosey on by us during the middle of the day like "haayy what up earth" and we're like all "wait a minute what are you doing here it's 2pm" ? Yea.. crazy space shit.

So, in true New York fashion, why not take this as the opportunity to party it up on a Monday in celebration of this rare celestial show that we're being gifted? Leave the office early and go get sloshed on a rooftop bar in the middle of the afternoon. Do it for the planet.

Here's a roundup of viewing parties happening in every borough where you can catch the total (well.. 75%) solar eclipse.. of the heart.

MANHATTAN

► Haven Rooftop at Sanctuary Hotel, 132 W. 47th St., Midtown

Head to this bar for rooftop views, eclipse-themed cocktails and bar bites. Doors will open at 1 p.m, and $20 admission will get you one drink and a pair of eclipse sunglasses.