

Page Six

Former Yankee Roger Clemens is life of the party at rooftop bar

Roger Clemens
Getty Images

Yankees fans were gobsmacked when former ace Roger Clemens brought down the house at the Sanctuary Hotel's Haven Rooftop by breaking into a high spirited version of "Play That Funky Music."

Clemens brought 12 pals to help usher in the holidays and they all sang "Let It Snow" when they saw a blizzard moving in.

(Sanctuary owners Brandon and Hank Freid explained the flakes were from six snow machines around the roof.)

Either way, Clemens kept tipping the DJ — who was overheard saying, "He gave me so many hundreds that I can pay all my bills for the entire month."